Metro Transit & Biking

Bike to a Metro stop for a faster commute

How to bring your bike on a MetroBus or MetroLink train.

MetroLink Train:

After all other passengers have boarded or exited the train, enter at the rear door of the first train car or the front or rear door of the second train car.

- Only 2 bikes can fit in each area. If a train is too crowded, wait for the next train before boarding with your bike.
- After boarding, stand with your bike and don't leave it unattended or put it on its kickstand (it could fall and hurt someone or block the aisle).

Please be respectful/safe and don't ride your bike on station platforms. Instead, walk your bike to the elevators or ramps, and carry it when on stairs.

MetroBus: All vehicles have a two-bike rack that is available on a first-come, first-served basis.

1. Squeeze center handle and pull rack down.

2. Lift bike onto rack and place tires into rack slot.

3. Pull and lift tire hook to secure over top of front tire.

Metro Transit Tips

Enjoy the Ride!

Metro Transit U-Pass

- U-Passes provide unlimited free rides on all STL MetroBuses & MetroLink trains.
- Free to full-time students, benefits-eligible faculty and staff, and full-time basic service contractors .

How to ride a MetroBus or MetroLink train

Download the Transit App to plan your route. The GO feature walks you through your whole trip.
Visit transitapp.com and view the "Help" page for tutorials.

MetroBus: MetroBus stops across campus, many of which are shared with WashU shuttle stops.

- As the bus approaches, signal to the operator that you want to board by raising your hand.
- Make sure the lighted signs on the outside of the bus have your route number AND destination.
- Swipe U-Pass through card reader and show your WashU ID.
- When approaching your stop, pull the cord or press the strip (option dependent on the bus).

MetroLink Train: MetroLink stations are located on/near most WashU campuses, including two on Danforth along Forest Park Pkwy.

- Both the Red Line and Blue Line serve the Danforth campus. They split off in different directions at Forest Park-DeBaliviere.
- Before boarding, look at the red or blue signs on the train's front or side to ensure it's the correct line (Red vs Blue) AND direction (e.g., Shrewsbury-Lansdowne vs Fairview Heights). If you get on the wrong one, simply hop off at the next stop and board the correct train.
- You don't need to swipe your U-Pass, but you should have it with you in case a fare inspector asks.
- Operators will announce each upcoming MetroLink station, and schematic maps are located in every car so you can see how many more stops you have.

To learn more & request a U-Pass,
visit parking.wustl.edu/metro.
